

The image shows the national flag of Jamaica, which consists of a green upper and lower triangle, a black left and right triangle, and a yellow saltire (X-shape) in the center. The flag has a rough, torn-edge texture, suggesting it is a watercolor or a piece of aged paper. The word "Jamaica" is written in a white, sans-serif font on the left side, overlapping the black triangle.

One of Jamaica Bay's major attractions is the wildlife refuge, open year round, that may be reached by subway and a hike of one mile. The Jamaica Bay Wildlife Refuge provides full moon seasonal hunting for more than 300 species of birds, including Canada geese in winter, and egrets and osprey. The weather is best in months. The teeming marine life of the bay offers exceptional fishing at the North Channel Bridge and Canarsie Pier. Various programs are offered at Breezy Point, Floyd Bennett Field, and the Jamaica Bay Wildlife Refuge.

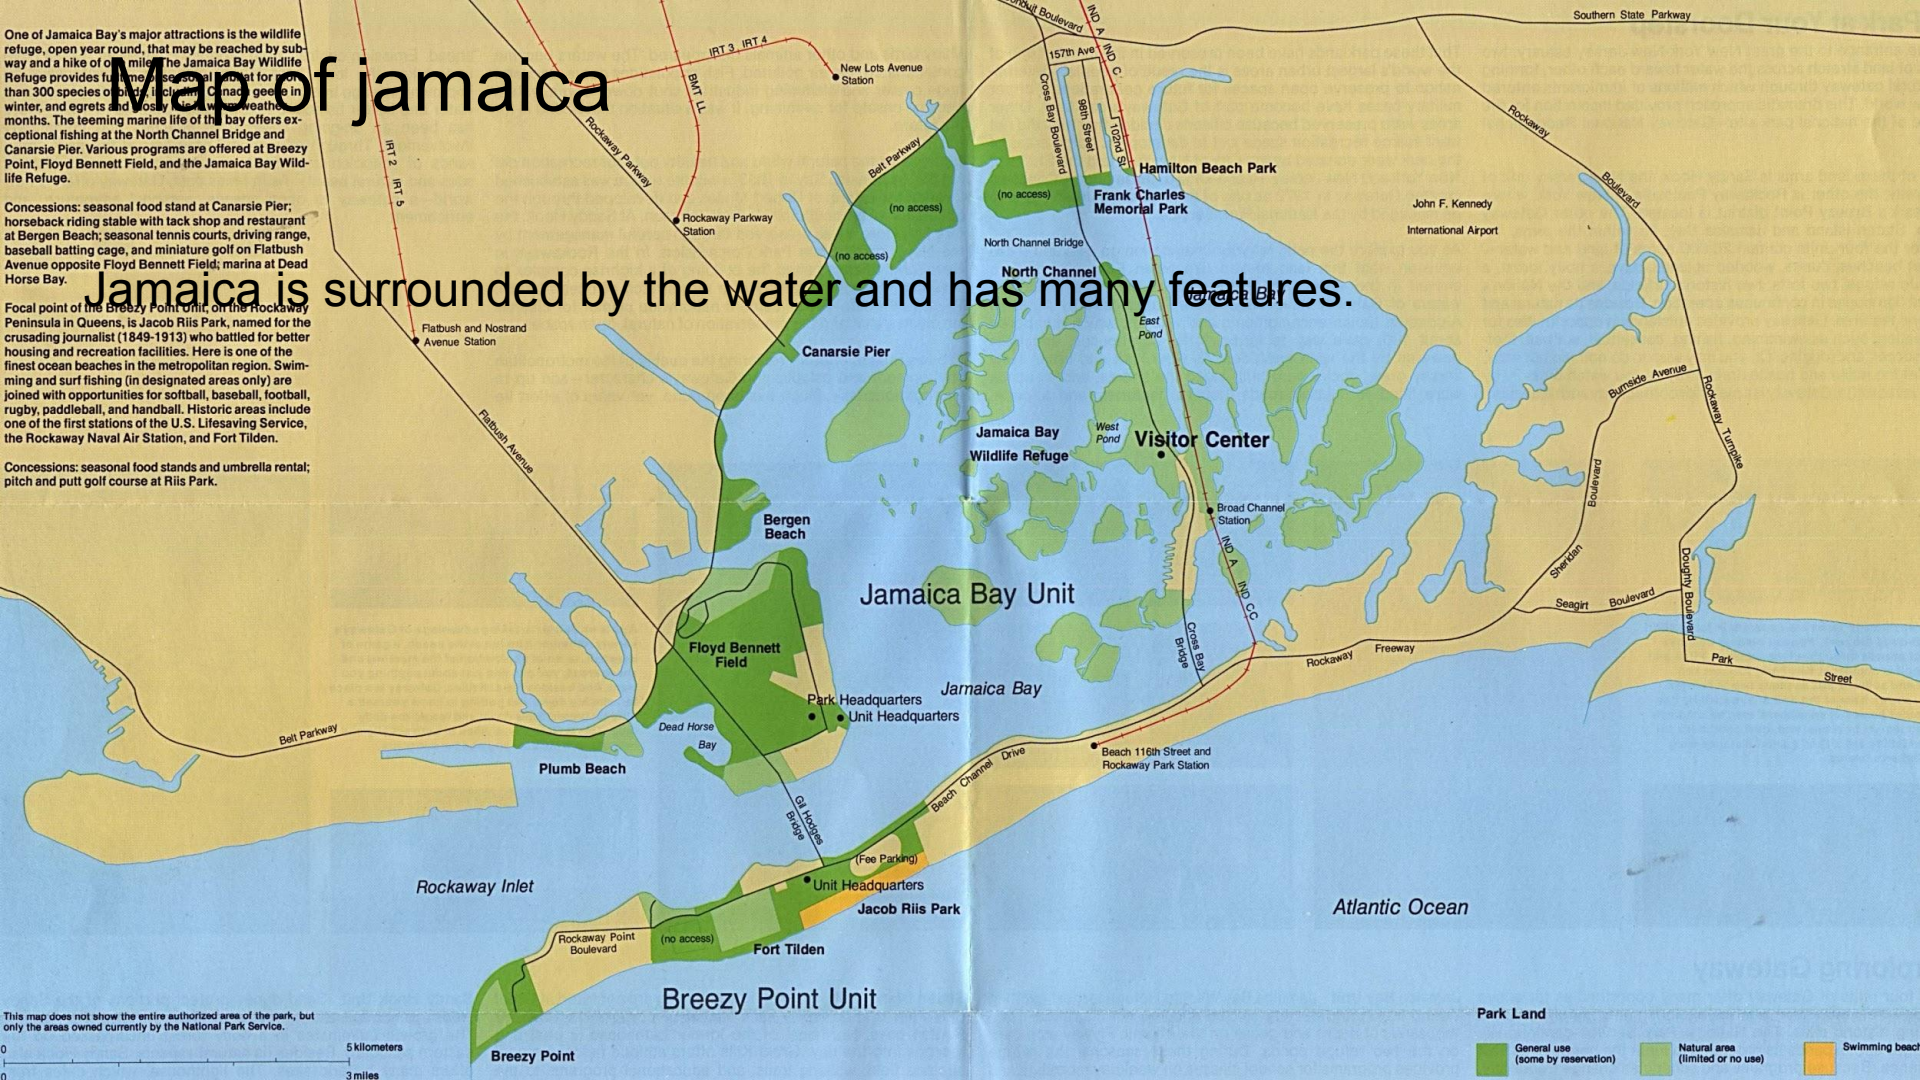

Concessions: seasonal food stand at Canarsie Pier; horseback riding stable with tack shop and restaurant at Bergen Beach; seasonal tennis courts, driving range, baseball batting cage, and miniature golf on Flatbush Avenue opposite Floyd Bennett Field; marina at Dead Horse Bay.

Focal point of the Breezy Point Unit, on the Rockaway Peninsula in Queens, is Jacob Riis Park, named for the crusading journalist (1849-1913) who battled for better housing and recreation facilities. Here is one of the finest ocean beaches in the metropolitan region. Swimming and surf fishing (in designated areas only) are joined with opportunities for softball, baseball, football, rugby, paddleball, and handball. Historic areas include one of the first stations of the U.S. Lifesaving Service, the Rockaway Naval Air Station, and Fort Tilden.

Concessions: seasonal food stands and umbrella rental; pitch and putt golf course at Riis Park.
